Enrique Brito is a Senior Managing Director of The McLean Group, LLC, a national middle market investment bank headquartered in the Washington DC area. He focuses on advising owners of privately-held middle market businesses on the implementation of corporate strategies for growth (raising capital and/or acquisitions) and liquidity (sale or recapitalizations). His primary expertise is with companies in healthcare technology, particularly in the information technology, medical devices and biotech sectors.

Mr. Brito has more than 20 years of experience in corporate finance and investment banking and has been involved in transactions in the U.S. and in several Latin American countries including Mexico, Venezuela, Colombia and Peru. He is an instructor with the National Association of Certified Valuation Analysts where he lectures on courses in M&A and business valuation to national audiences (awarded Instructor of Great and Exceptional Distinction from 2003 to 2009). He also is an instructor for the Small Business Administration in Washington DC and a regular contributor to local business publications and a speaker at national conferences on M&A topics.

Mr. Brito holds an MBA, with honors, from The American University and a BS degree in Industrial and Systems Engineering from the University of Florida. He also holds professional credentials as a Chartered Financial Analyst (CFA), Accredited Valuation Analyst (AVA), Certified Merger & Acquisition Professional (CMAP) and Certified Mergers & Acquisitions Advisor (CM&A). Mr. Brito is a member of the CFA Institute, the Washington Society of Investment Analysts, the National Association of Certified Valuation Analysts and the Financial Planning Association. He is a Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (FINRA) registered representative (Series 7, 63), investment banking representative (Series 79) and general securities principal (Series 24).
